

Eastern York School District is Among the Top Achieving Districts in Pennsylvania

In a recent report from the Center for Education Policy, a leading national educational research organization that finds Pennsylvania is the only state in the nation that made across-the-board gains in student achievement from 2002 to 2008. Governor Rendell publicly announced this great achievement during a press conference at 12:30 p.m. on Wednesday, August 19, in the State Capitol Rotunda.

While this is a wonderful accomplishment for the commonwealth, it also is a notable accomplishment for Eastern York School District, which was among the 50 districts in Pennsylvania to make the greatest gains since 2002.

“This recognition has provided the Eastern York School District’s administrators, staff and students a much-deserved pat on the back,” said Dr. Darla Pianowski.
