Principal Letter

Holiday vacation will be here soon. Over vacation it is a good time to keep your child’s mind active and learning. December brings opportunities to spend time with family. It can also be the time for reading for enjoyment and practicing reading. If you have a set time for reading, it will become part of your child’s routine. It might be reading together at night and discussing the story together. Even just reading several holiday stories over vacation helps practice fluency and comprehension. Many times reading at the end of the day gives children time to unwind and reflect. Just 15 minutes of you reading to your child makes a world of difference to a child’s future.

are able to challenge themselves by investigating significant mathematical content and practicing fundamental skills.

Another activity you and your child can do is math. Studying math facts for more efficient fluency for five or ten minutes a day helps your child practice and gain speed and accuracy. Even cooking and doubling a recipe has children working with fractions. Stressing the importance of math in daily lives allows children to see the relevance. ### A MESSAGE FROM THE SCHOOL NURSE

Unfortunately, each school year all schools deal with head lice, especially elementary schools. Head lice are not a health hazard, however, they can be quite a problem for families to get rid of at home. The presence of head lice is in no way indicative of a lack of cleanliness. They are nothing to panic or be embarrassed about. Should you suspect that your child has been exposed to lice, the following steps can help control the spread of this problem.

- Examine your child's scalp and hair very carefully for any sign of eggs (nits) and/or lice. Nits are very tiny and difficult to see. They vary in color from yellowish-brown to pearly white and are teardrop shaped. Nits are firmly attached to the hair shaft close to the scalp, at the back of the head, and behind the ears with a waterproof glue-like substance. It is so strong that the nits cannot be washed or flicked off with the fingernail. EVERY WEEK, TAKE A PEEK!

- Remind your child not to share combs, barrettes, hats, scarves, helmets, or coats. Encourage your child to put their coat, hats/gloves, etc. in their bookbag to prevent the spread of lice.

- If nits and/or lice are found:

- Treat hair with a lice-killing product. Ask the pharmacist if you need help in choosing or locating a product. Remove all lice and nits from the hair. Check hair every day for at least 14 days for any missed lice and/or nits.
- Repeat treatment in 7-10 days.
- Wash clothing, pillows, bed sheets, and stuffed animals in hot water, and then place them in a dryer for 20 minutes on the warmest setting.
- Soak all combs and hairbrushes in hot water for 20 minutes.
- Vacuum all rugs, furniture, car seats, cars, and mattresses.

Lastly, if you suspect or know that your child has lice, PLEASE contact the school nurse.

Students with regular attendance are more likely to read well by third grade and score higher on tests. They also tend to be more engaged in school and feel better about themselves. Put your child on the path to success with these attendance strategies.

Make school a priority. Every absence (excused or not), can impact a child's academic achievement. Talk to your child about how important their education is. Make daily routines for homework and waking up on time for school. Maintain communication with teachers and keep an eye on your child's academic progress. If your child seems disconnected from school, try signing him or her up for an after-school activity. A report by the University of Minnesota found that students in an after-school program attended 18 more days of school and missed nine fewer than their peers.

Make a plan. Have your child ride the school bus every day if possible. If riding the school bus is not an option and if your schedule or transportation situation makes getting your child to school a challenge, ask for assistance. Make a carpool or transportation plan with other parents or family members.

Report In. Know your school's attendance policies. If an absence or early dismissal is unavoidable, contact your school. Our Attendance Secretary, Mrs. Sipe will place a courtesy call to you if your child is absent and you didn't already call in. PLEASE call and let us know that you are keeping your child home. When students are absent, a written excuse is required within 3 days of returning to school. If you don't have any excuse cards, a written note is acceptable. If your child misses three (3) or more consecutive days a doctor's note is required.
